

The Farmer Wants a Wife* searches for a new crop of farmers looking for love!

CASTING FOR SERIES SIX IS NOW UNDERWAY

Australian farmers do it tough, especially when it comes to matters of the heart. Often living in isolation, it's almost impossible for many single farmers to find the partner of their dreams – until now.

Following the success of this year's The Farmer Wants A Wife, currently screening on the Nine Network, producer FremantleMedia Australia is now casting farmers for the much anticipated sixth series.

We are searching nationally for single farmers aged between 20 and 60 who are looking to meet their one true love. Farmers – females and males - must be genuine working farmers, be it grazier, dairy, fruit, pig, chicken, fish, viticulturalist etc.

If you are, or know of a single farmer who may be willing to take part in The Farmer Wants A Wife, please log onto our official website and email the quick and easy expression of interest form to farmer@fremantlemedia.com.au

The Farmer Wants A Wife will see a dozen farmers profiled on a website, and through a series of events – web-chat, speed-dating, country stays and city escapes – find their perfect love match. Eventually, six farmers will star in the show to have their chance of finding love.

The Farmer Wants a Wife is a feel-good story of love and romance. This is not a competition. There's no prize money and the only winner in the end... is LOVE. We simply follow the story of Australian farmers meeting new partners, exploring new relationships and trying to find their bride or groom.

The Farmer Wants A Wife begins production in October and will air on the Nine Network in 2011. The Farmer Wants A Wife is a FremantleMedia Australia production for the Nine Network.
